

Diamond McNulty was born and raised in the Cabrini Green housing projects located on the Northside of Chicago, Illinois. Surrounded by gang violence, drugs and minimal opportunities, he has traveled a road that many would have been apprehensive of. However, being a man of great faith, this young mogul is on his way to changing the world as we see it today. Like the saying, “It’s not how you start, it’s how you finish”.

If you’d asked us a year ago, “Who is Diamond McNulty”, we would say he is an Executive Chef, a Serial Entrepreneur and the Author of several books, his most noted being “How To Become A Successful Young Man”.

Today we would better describe Diamond McNulty as a man who believes in others just as much as he believes in himself. Diamond is passionate about helping others succeed and empowering the next generation to strive for greatness. He is an active Executive Board Member for various schools and nonprofit organizations. Diamond prides himself on being very active inside the community and making a difference. All of his endeavors have the same underlying mission, to help others grow through literacy, understand the journey to success, and motivating others via speaking.

With all that he’s accomplished at such a young age from starting grass root businesses and winning competitions such as Steve Harvey’s Act Like A Success, McNulty wants to share his experience and knowledge to those coming behind him. Success without a successor is failure, let’s just say McNulty embodies this quote with every fabric of his being.

As an Executive Chef, Diamond McNulty has been in the Culinary field for over 15 years, from working at 5-Star hotels to now operating his own catering company, Taste Of Diamond.
